

To whome it may concern XM radio is the best thing to happen since sliced bread, and always knowing whats going on where ever you are and whats ahead is not only the smart thing to do but it is by far the safest. Knowing what the conditions are of the city you are coming up to could and does prevent traffic from being in a location that it could have found a different route to take thus prevents longer delays for comuters, delivery drivers and saftey officals. Doing away with XM weather and traffic would not only be a grave mistake it would be doing wrong to all that rely on it.
